

- 1 Select a research paper on flow resistance for canals with movable beds, excluding the ones described in the class. Write a summary and critical review on the paper. Your summary should include details of the research project, assumption and findings. Choose a river data and calculate the stage-discharge values, using the proposed method. Compare them with the results obtained from a similar method presented in the class.